Hello,
How are you? I'm truly sorry that your dance performance was cancelled. I apologize for ~~not coming~~ ^{not coming} to the performance, but I have a reason. The reason is number 7: we had to go to school. I should have ~~written~~ ^{written} the choreography work. The reason number 2 is that I didn't come to the station. I ~~was~~ ^{was} waiting for some minutes. Had we not finally come, we would have stucked in traffic jam. And sure, I ~~was~~ ^{was} skipped it. I apologize again and if you want, I can hang out with you. And yes, I will come to your next performance. I hope that a new arrangement will be great.

With love,
Egor

Dear Lia,

I saw your news recently. I'm okay and I'm really glad to see your letter. How are you?

I'm sorry, but I can not come to your first dance performance. I must go to my first scientific tour to another country. I am sorry but I really can not do that. After that I must go to my mum in another city. She will celebrate her birthday. She is seventy years old. I want to go to your performance, but I have really important plans. I apologise, my friend. I wish you a good luck to your performance and I hope you will take a first place and prize also.

Love,

Yana

Dear Tom,

Thank you for your recent email. I hope you're doing well. In your email you asked me to tell you about problems with your first dance performance with the dance company.

Besides, I broke my leg because I was running on the street. I have to have surgery. I have to visit my doctor on a regular basis. I wish that you ^{could} be a great dancer for a long time. I'm meeting you at 10:00 on Saturday in the Starbucks and tell you about future dance performance.

I wish you have good time and great dancing performances. Good luck my best friend and classmate Tom.

Best wishes,

Ashley
